DEDICATION

We, the Class of 1963, lovingly dedicate this, our Senior Yearbook, to Mr. Francis J. Collins.

A graduate of Boston Latin School, Boston College, and Boston State Teachers College, Mr. Collins joined our faculty in 1955 as a teacher of mathematics. In 1958 he was elected head of the Mathematics Department. He has also been a member of the Football Coaching Staff for several years.

A kind, gentle, and understanding teacher and coach, he has endeared himself to all. Our best wishes to him and to Mrs. Collins for continued health and happiness.

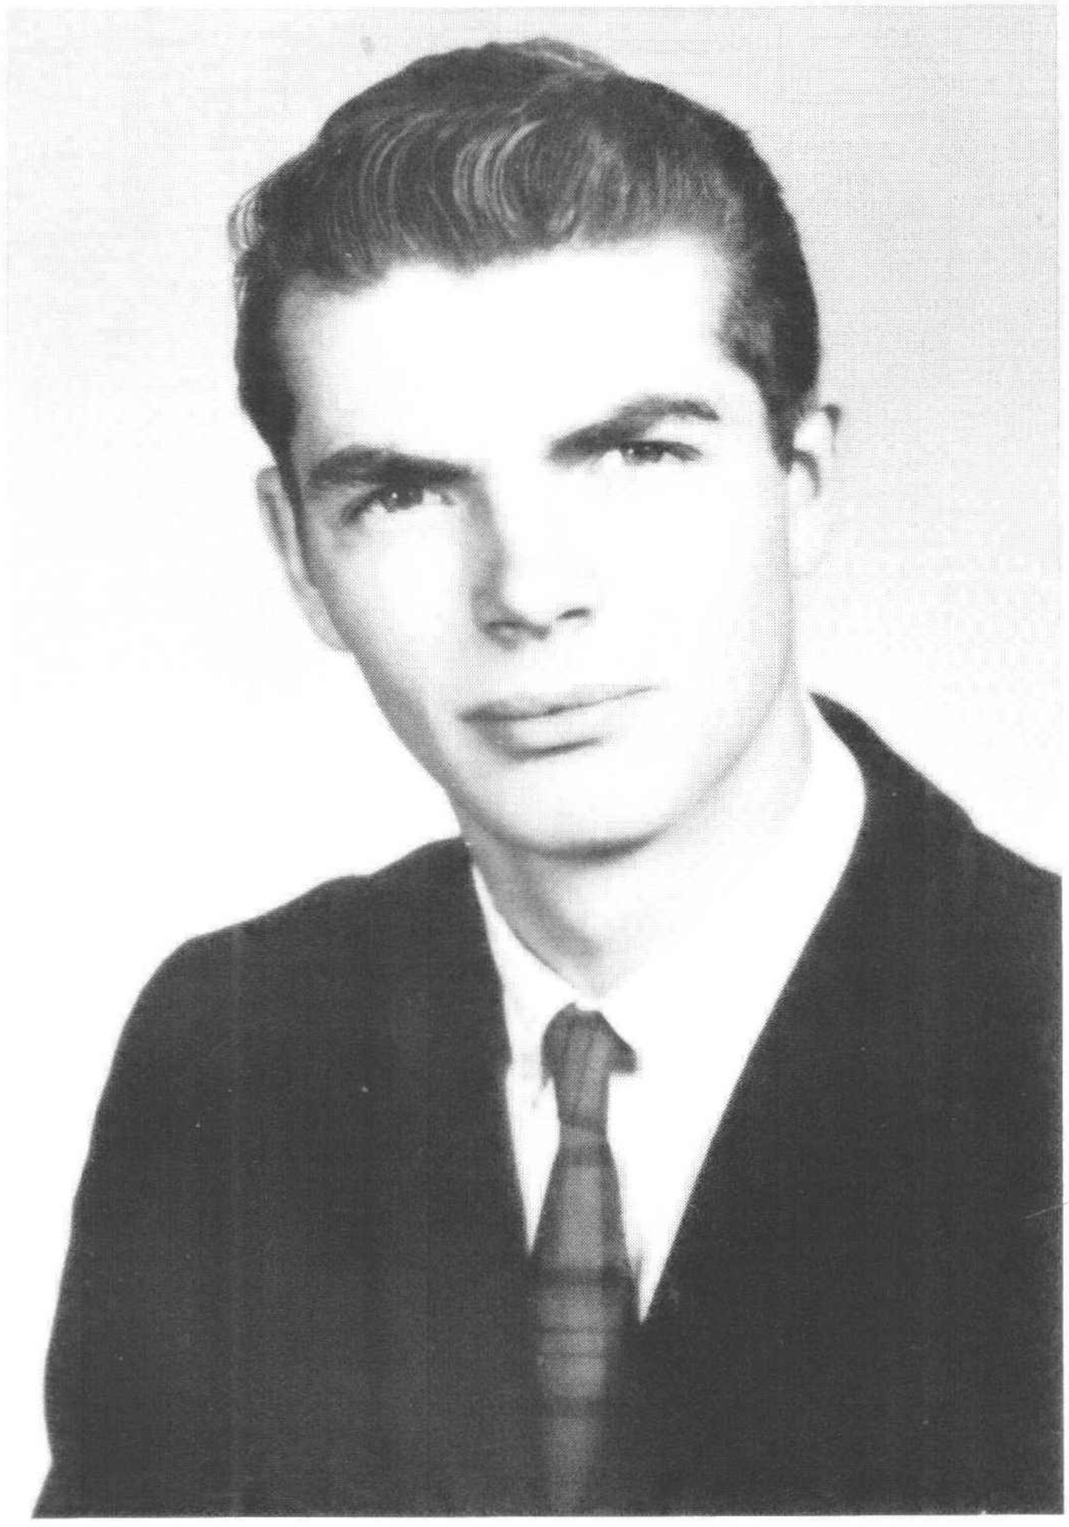

IN MEMORIAM

GERALD J. SLAMIN

Gerald J. Slamin, a member of the faculty at Natick High School for twenty-three years, died suddenly on January 9, 1963. Born in Natick, a graduate of Natick High School, Boston College, and organizer of the School of Driver Trainers' Association, Mr. Slamin was a former basketball and football coach. His pleasing personality, genial disposition, and deep personal interest in the welfare of those students he coached and instructed will long be remembered.

IN MEMORIAM

PAUL GURNEY

The faculty and students of Natick High School were shocked and grieved to learn of the sudden and untimely death of one of our classmates, Paul Gurney, in an automobile accident in Maine during our February vacation. A kind, gentle, and friendly young man, Paul was very popular at school and had looked forward to graduation and admission to college. We shall always remember his friendly smile and happy manner.

PYGMALION

By

George Bernard Shaw

PYGMALION

On November 16, 1962, the Class of 1963 proudly presented George Bernard Shaw's immortal Pygmalion. Because of the exactness of character involved in the casting of this play, most high schools refuse to attempt this production, but under the capable direction of Mr. Harry L. Garnett of the English Department, the cast slowly rounded into form, and the performance was generally regarded as one of excellence. Jane Pistone as Eliza Doolittle, the curbstone flower girl, turned into a society queen; Andrew Goodspeed as the English dialectition, Henry Higgins, who works this miracle of metamorphosis, and David Levine as Eliza's father, Alf Doolittle, truly earned the ovations they received. Mark Szpakowski as Higgin's friendly enemy, Colonel Pickering, was just right as the typical dignified Englishman, helping Eliza when Henry's temper made her feel all was in vain. Sally Hastings as Higgin's irrepressible mother put him in his place, much to the delight of the audience.

The other characters, the Einsford-Hills, Mrs. Pierce, and the bystanders, brought out the characters of the leads beautifully with their portrayals of the common folk of London, keeping the play moving at a quick pace right from the first act. The success of the play made all involved proud to have been a part of the whole.

The Chorus

The Dance Band

When Adonis stepped out of his space craft on earth, he stumbled onto a near-bankrupt department store filled with old, trusted, faithful employees, slid into two budding romances, tripped over a villain and his henchmen, and fell for a rather helpless young lady.

After many songs, dances, and witty remarks, the situation changes. The store is on a paying basis; all the faithful employees have jobs; the romances are in full bloom, the villain is destroyed; and the helpless young lady is kissed goodbye.
